EVALUATION OF CONTENT

1. The Wenchun 温春 airfield is fifteen kilometers south of Mutanchiang (129-37, 44-35) and one kilometer west of Wenchun (129-30, 44-27). The concrete runways are built in the shape of a "T". The length of the north-south runway is 900 meters, and that of the east-west runway, 600 meters. The width of each is 40 meters. There are four hangars on the field, but parts of these have been demolished. The field and the hangars were built by the Kuantung Army.
2. The Chinese Communist airfield at Mutanchiang is one kilometer east of the city's railway station. The concrete runway, running east to west, is 800 meters long and 40 meters wide. There are four hangars which were built by the Kuantung Army. Small planes are often seen taking off and landing at this field.
